Novi Police Department to host Award Ceremony

NOVI, Mich., May 8, 2008 – The Novi Police Department will recognize the year's best of its exceptional work force when it hosts the annual awards ceremony on Wednesday, May 14, at 3 p.m. The Award Ceremony will take place in the Novi Police Department Training Center, located at 45125 W. Ten Mile Road, between Taft and Novi Roads.

The Novi Police Department will recognize its 2007 Civilian Employee of the Year, as well as its 2007 Police Officer of the Year. Several other distinguished service, meritorious service and life saving awards will be presented. Officer Jeff Brown and K-9 Yukon will also be recognized for their seven years of service to the Novi Community.

"The men and women of the Novi Police Department pride themselves on providing the best service possible for our community," commented Novi Chief of Police David E. Molloy. "It is my honor to recognize the outstanding men and women of the Novi Police Department. Their professional and dedicated service to our community helps provide a safe environment in which people can live, work and play. The Novi Community is very fortunate to have these individuals serving them on a daily basis."

The Novi Police Department has recognized the Officer of the Year since 1973 and its Civilian Employee of the Year since 2000. For more information about the City of Novi or the Novi Police Department please visit cityofnovi.org.
